Dear Mr Yates,

I am exceedingly glad you wrote to me, as there will certainly be two or more appointments in my department, and I shall have to get at least one fixed before I go away, towards the end of May.

Had I known you were thinking of research at home I should have sent you a letter to the Gold Coast, which would not have reached you yet!

Tell me if a 3rd. Grade job rising from about £300 net (+ £48 invested in superannuation benefit) to about £360, would at all attract you. There will later presumably be a 2nd. Grade post, but I should prefer not to fill this yet.

Yours sincerely,
