

25th July, 1955.

My dear Frank,

Many thanks for your letter with its annotations, most of which I immediately put in. You make a point about p.9-11, where I mention that a fiducial probability statement about future observations can be verified to any degree of ^{prec} decision required; I shall certainly have to add something to this, my first shot being that of the enclosed slip. On re-reading your letter I have added a little more, and should be glad to know if you think it meets your point.

Sincerely yours,

Enc.

I will read Chapter VII in a day or two after seeing first two copies.
