

13 September 1933.

Dr. Chester I. Bliss,
724 Earlham Drive,
Whittier,
California, U.S.A.

Dear Dr. Bliss:

I have forgotten, hitherto, to make a suggestion which I think may be valuable, namely, that if possible you should visit R.K. Nabours at Manhattan, Kansas, on your way across, and see his methods of breeding grouse locusts and of collecting them. His work interests me extremely, and I should like you to know as much as possible about it, before coming to London.

Yours sincerely,