

Jan 31. 33

CRIPPS'S CORNER,
FOREST ROW, SUSSEX.

Dear Fisher.

I have been reading a very plain spoken book by Douglas White, which interested me a good deal. It is on intimate sex problems. Would you kindly let me know whether he has made an unimportant blunder in the quotation given below? A single line in reply would oblige. I am very ignorant - really of - Mendelism, but I thought this was wrong. I do not - in the least - know how you would react to White's book -

Yours sincerely

Denise Darwin

Modern light on Sex & Marriage.

White. (Skiffington) p. 40

"The only difference between the two contributions is now believed to be that, in mammals, the sperm holds the decisive element for the determination of sex;"

(* of the 2 sexes.)