

April 30th. [1932]

CRIPPS'S CORNER,
FOREST ROW, SUSSEX.

Dear Fisher,

I am still on the sick list and have not been out of the house for some time. I think this makes my hair lethargic and of little value.

I think it is most important that you should keep on good terms with Hogben, but I think there is little in what you say to which any reasonable man could object. I think I should be inclined to leave out the sentence containing "verbal agility" on page 3, and I am not prepared to suggest any other omission.

I believe ^{on quite a different point} that selection takes place [^] sometimes with cumulative factus with incredible dross. Hence on page 4 I suggest the word 'are' being replaced by 'maybe'.

I wish I could be of more help and all I say must be taken with a grain of salt. I like your sentence about the solemn hush outside the laboratory door!

Yours sincerely
J. Darwin
J. C. D. D.