CRIPPS'S CORNER,

FOREST ROW,

SUSSEX.

My dear Fisher.

I should be much obliged if you would let me know what you think of my enclosed draft reply to the enclosed letter from America. I need only have sent a copy of our Outline; but it seemed to me more civil to say something more, even if a bit beside the point. The question of divorce has been in my mind a bit since I saw that Lord Salvesen was going to speak about it at our annual meeting. I don't want our society to mix in these marriage extremes, because they seem to me to be out of our beat. Whether I shall be at the Annual Meeting I don't know, and if there I should prefer to be silent. But I want to know how you feel on these questions.

A brief reply soon would oblige.

Yours sincerely

Samuel Darwin
