

22 July 1881

Mallet writes asking if I am coming up, & in effect saying he would like a talk. I shall come for the first hour of the Council, & then go in as probably.

I saw Dr. Campbell of O.S.A., a useful American, who might get us funds for research. He was decidedly annoyed about James's Review of the Builders, saying such an account of a book by the Secretary, did not ^{wisely} make for harmony. I hope you will consider
