My dear Fisher

In a review of the Pop.
Congress at Geneva, Cav-Saunders makes Haldane state that the probable result of the biological composition of the population as a whole of the failure of the higher classes to reproduce will be small, even after several generations. Has he said anything new and illuminating? Or may I stick to my beliefs?
Don't trouble to write if nothing to say. I got stuck here for a month, with my wife & self having flu. I go home tomorrow.
I hope the meeting will go
