My dear Fiske.

Here is a point on which I shall ask your opinion - if you have one - when we meet.

I have dished up that review on Homogeneity into an article on Natural Selection, cutting out almost every reference to Berg, and a good deal more, but adding more than I have cut out. I don't know where to try to publish. It might go in our Review, possibly in two bits, if thought suitable. I don't know how many words it has, but can find out. Or would there be any chance of Suenia Progress? And would that be better? Not that it matters much, one way or the other.

But if you have any ideas, kindly let me know. When we meet.

Yours sincerely

L. Dawson
