Burgh le Marsh,
Lincolnshire.

My dear Fisher.

Herewith just batch of proofs. I have not read them very carefully yet myself but regret to notice a necessary correction on the first page.

The mathematics of space of say ten directions can hardly be said to "consist of generalisations such as this".
The words I propose to put in are selected so as to take up the same amount of space.

I hope my account of Mendelism won't give you a nervous shock. It is the part I fear biological criticism most;
and yet by having pages proof I cannot alter much.
I shall be glad of your frank opinion, but for this I think you will have to wait till you get the end of the chapter.

Yours sincerely

L. Darwin

P.S. Do you know anything of Henry Gale's private life; i.e. his marriage? If so will you tell me in confidence?
If not no answer. I hear a report of nullity of marriage.
I want to know for a particular private reason. Do not trouble to enquire if you don't know
