My dear Fisker.

It is indeed kind of Mr Fisker and you to invite me to stay with you. This is exactly how I stand. I arrange my work long before, and book a room at my Club. I have nothing to do on Monday, Nov. 5, but on Tuesday you know it will be a long day. On Wednesday also, I am <sup>after a morning's work</sup> in the chair at a long and late meeting, and probably to wait after it. Thus what would really suit me best would be to come to you for Monday night-

PS I could ask Mallet to lunch at my Club on Tuesday. Would that be a good plan?
We can settle that next week only, which I should much enjoy, and should be fresh and not tired. Then I should sleep at my Club on Tuesday & Wednesday, going to bed very early! I am really sorry that this should be the best plan, but I think it is.

I now have to cut my coat according to my cloth in this way of work and fatigue.

As to next week, I could run up from here any day, Wednesday being only slightly most-inconvenient.
