CRIPPS'S CORNER,
FOREST ROW,
SUSSEX.

My dear Fisher.

I think yours is an interesting suggestion about triplets. My doubt is whether the numbers are as great as you suggest; for I suppose people have to apply, and many might fail to do so. What next? Possibly any midwife might know to whom to apply, which would take one there to begin operations.

I could enquire from a Sir F Champneys, who would be likely to know. My only other doubt is whether we could now start the game even if we knew how.

One does not want to bother people quite useless. I hope we shall meet on the 25th inst, and can talk.

I was writing to I. Fisher, the Chairman of the American Eugenic Committee (I forget what they call it) the other day, and spoke to him about twins. He had said, I think, that they should try to get the mental tests into all elementary schools. I said ~~in every school~~ where there is a school with twins and also schools with twins, they should measure them both physically and mentally, and that ~~the~~ a comparison between the comparison between twins and ^{between} siblings ought to give an indication of the value of the mental tests as an index of inborn qualities. If they do more in that direction, their surgery might be extended

Yours sincerely

A. Dawson
