CRIPPS'S CORNER,
FOREST ROW,
SUSSEX.

Dear Fisher.

At a meeting at which you were not present, I think, I was asked to give an address this year at the annual meeting, and I am selecting Sexual selection in man as my subject. Now I must bring it up. If you know of any recent important book or publication, not in our review, I should be much obliged if you would name it.

I am just finishing a long chapter about the need for widespread Eugenic reform, incorporating Frederick the great again. I should be grateful for your help about one figure especially. I don't want to run my hobby too hard, and criticisms in that direction might be useful. May I show it to you some day? But it is rather a show.

I am not ready yet to write about the selection question.

Yours sincerely

J. Darwin.
