

P. C. Ripley

TELEPHONE NO. 47726.

DEPARTMENT OF
ZOOLOGY AND COMPARATIVE ANATOMY,
UNIVERSITY MUSEUM, OXFORD.

April 11th 1948.

My dear Ron,

Forgive me for not acknowledging earlier the safe receipt of the catalogue. I have been away for a few days and had told them not to forward parcels, with which they seem to have closed your large envelope.

I will go through this catalogue and see what can be done to make useful exhibits from the contents of the two cases. I will ~~put~~ ~~down~~ suggestions and discuss them with you when we meet. In some instances it may be necessary to see the material again, which I can do some time when I am in Cambridge.

I enclose another paper on pigments and classification (No. 4 of the Series), in which I use the data accumulated in the last one I sent you (No. 3). No, the paper on Polymorphism (for Biological Reviews) is not yet out; but unfortunately I had to return the proofs before you got back. It was written about the time you were leaving (Munro Fox is setting it-through with incredible speed), so that I have not been able to get your opinion and advice on it, which I should have been so particularly glad to have had.

It will be a pleasure to go through the catalogue and see what can be done.

Yours ever,
H. W. →