

4th June, 1953.

My dear Henry,

I wonder if it would be possible for you to come up to town and be my guest in the evening at the Royal Society Dining Club following the Croonian Lecture which I am giving on June 11th. It will, as you will well understand, be a very great pleasure to me if you could accept this invitation.

Yours sincerely,