

Sat. August 1949.

My dear Henry,

This is to await your return at Oxford.

When Darlington received our note on Sewall Wright he suggested that a few introductory words on the background of the problem would be in place. Consequently I drafted the enclosed and sent it him, knowing that I could not quickly contact you in Scilly, and suspecting that you would not want to be bothered about it anyway.

I hope I have made the opening paragraphs fit together, with minor alterations in the opening words of the second.

Yours sincerely,
